Production

All REHAU plants in Europe have been certified with the independent VinylPlus product label due to their sustainable production processes.

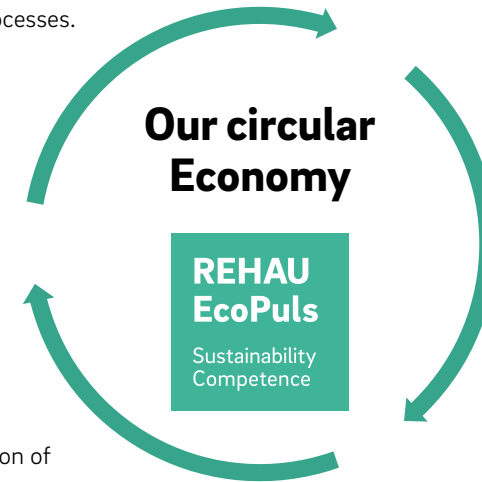

Products

REHAU EcoPuls co-extruded, window profile systems are unique for the window industry in terms of a closed-loop economy. The result: a saving of up to 97,000 tonnes of CO₂ annually.

Extrusion

The unique REHAU extrusion process enables the production of window profiles that are made of recycled material in the core of the profile. Today, the proportion of recycled material is between 40% and 75% in more than 40% of REHAU profiles.

Collection

Millions of old PVC frames are a valuable resource for new plastic windows. REHAU maintains a very large network to collect this material.

Recycling

Complete old window frames are separated into different raw materials (e.g. glass and metal) and recycled. The PVC polymer components that come primarily from the old window profiles are key for us. These are processed into high-quality recycled granules. This saves up to 88% of CO₂ emissions compared to the production of new virgin PVC.
